Guide to Authors

Article types

ASSR welcomes original and well-researched articles in arts and social sciences for consideration. The manuscript should be concise as the topic, problem articulation, methods, results/findings and conclusion. Generally, the manuscript should not exceed 7000 words, including references (Research Articles), 4,500 words (Analyses and Reports), or 1,000 words (Book Reviews), respectively. The authors are advised to strictly adhere to the format and style of the journal by carefully reading the notes for contributors before submitting their manuscripts.

Book Reviews – should contain a summary of the book's contents; the main research issues covered in the book and their connection to international scientific discussions; an appraisal of the book's theoretical framework, methods, formal weaknesses or strengths, and its contribution to the ongoing scientific debate. The book review should be headed by the following information: name and first name of the author(s), title, place of publication, publisher, year of publication, ISBN, and the number of pages. It should not contain footnotes or bibliographic notes

Submission Policy

Only manuscripts of sufficient quality that meet the aims and scope of ASSR shall be reviewed and considered for publication. All manuscripts submitted to the Editor for consideration must not be under consideration or published by another journal or publisher. As part of the submission process, you will be required to certify that you are submitting your original work, that you have the rights to the work, and that you are submitting the work for first publication in the Journal.

Submission of Manuscript
The manuscripts should be sent to the Editor via email: fassjassr@nda.edu.ng

Plagiarism Policy
ASSR is committed to maintaining high standards through an in-depth peer-review process with sound ethical policies. Any infringements of professional ethical codes, such as plagiarism; including self-plagiarism, and fraudulent use of data, are seriously frowned upon by the journal with zero tolerance.

ASSR implements the Code of Conduct of the Committee on Publication Ethics (COPE) and uses the COPE Flowcharts for Resolving cases of suspected plagiarism or any publication misconduct.

To avoid plagiarism cases with the ASSR, the following guidelines must be strictly adhered to by authors:

1. Authors should ensure that they have written entirely original works, and if they have used the work and/or words of others, this has been appropriately cited or quoted.
2. An author should not generally publish manuscripts describing the same research in more than one journal or primary publication. Submitting the same manuscript to more than one journal concurrently constitutes unacceptable publishing behaviour.
3. Proper acknowledgement of the work of others must always be adhered to. Authors should cite publications that have been influential in determining the nature of the reported work.

Language
All papers should be written in English and spelling should generally follow the Concise Oxford Dictionary of Current English. Abstracts in other languages will be printed if the author so desires, together with an abstract in English. All abstracts must be provided by the author.

Preparation of the Manuscript

Authors are strongly advised to consult a recent issue of the journal to acquaint themselves with the general layout of articles. Manuscripts should be neatly typewritten on one side only of the paper (preferably A4). Double spacing must be used throughout, allowing wide margins (about 3cm) on all sides.

The paper should be prepared using the following format:

Title page

This should contain

a. The full title, preferably of less than 20 words and containing the geographical location of the study (where necessary);
b. A running title of not more than 48 letters and spaces;
c. A list of up to 5 keywords in alphabetical order suitable for international retrieval systems;
d. The full name of each author;
e. The Name of the institution in which the work was carried out;
f. The present postal address of the author to whom proofs should be sent.

Abstract

This should be a single paragraph not more than 150 words l, a concise summary of the paper, intelligible on its own in conjunction with the title and without abbreviations or references

Main Text

Broad division in the text should be indicated and sub-headings supplied where appropriate. Sub-headings, foreign words and book titles should be italicized. Quotations of more than 40 words should be indicated in line with the APA 7th edition system.

Maps, Tables and Diagrams

Each map, table and diagram should be set out on a separate sheet of paper and their proposed position in the text mapped out. Where possible, maps should be submitted with transparency. Only clear copies of tables and diagrams are accepted in the case of direct photography and their source(s) are clearly stated.

Referencing

The APA style of Referencing is preferred i.e. the surname of the author, year of publication and page number(s) should be given in parenthesis.

Following the APA 7th edition, references to literature in the text should conform to the 'name-and-date' system; as shown in the following examples:

In the Text:

i. As earlier reported (Yusuf, 1990; Ayegba & Adejoh, 2020)
ii. According to Tar (2022), Tar and Bashir (2019, p. 15), and Ayeni et al., (1990, p. 20) military assessment of terrain is centred on two aspects: Tactical and Strategic.
iii. If several references are cited in one place in the text, they should be arranged alphabetically and then chronologically. The names of cited journals should be given in full. Certain foreign language citations may be translated into English and this should always be done where the English alphabet is not used (e.g. Russia).

Proofs

When proofs are received, they should be carefully corrected and returned to the Editor with the least possible delay.

Off-Prints

In lieu of off-prints, a copy of the Journal will be sent to the Principal Author.

Copyright

In consideration of the copy of Arts and Social Science Review (ASSR) supplied, the author(s) assign to the publishers the copyright of the paper.

Business Correspondence

Correspondence concerning copyright, back issues, advertising and sales to libraries should be addressed to the Business Manager, Arts and Social Science Review (ASSR), P.M.B. 2109, Kaduna, 800001, Nigeria.

Peer Review Process

ASSR adopts a double-blind review process. Authors' and reviewers' identities are not disclosed to ensure an objective technical review of all submitted manuscripts. To ensure objectivity and anonymity during the manuscript review, the authors are requested to remove details indicating their names, affiliations, email addresses, and addresses linking them to ORCHID, Scopus, Google Scholar, LinkedIn, Research ID, Research-gate etc. Two or three experts review an article and submit their reports.

Guide to Reviewers

ASSR editors select potential reviewers based on their expertise in relevant research areas and based on the manuscript under consideration. Reviewer invitations are sent by email by the Editor. Reviewers reserve the right to accept or reject invitations. A reviewer should accept an invitation only if he/she knows the time and objectivity necessary to provide an unbiased assessment of the research. During the peer review process, you will not know the authors' names, and your name will not be shared. Your review report will be shared with the author.

Competing Interests and Conflict of Interest:

Competing or conflict of interest is anything that interferes that could interfere with a thorough and objective assessment of a manuscript. This could include familiarity with the work and/or the likely author; previous collaboration with the author; benefiting from the work submitted to you for review either directly or indirectly. Do not accept a review assignment if you have competing interests or conflicting. If you're unsure whether your relationship qualifies as a competing interest, contact the journal team for advice.

During the review process, reviewers are guided by the review form provided to them by the editor. Fundamentally, reviewers provide a scientific assessment of the paper and consider its suitability for publication. Focus is also on the adequacy of content: presentation, novelty, and accessibility of the content. Their comments and suggestions generally provide direction for the improvement of the manuscript.

The reviewers provide the following recommendations for decisions to be taken on the manuscript: Accept without revision(s), Accept with minor revision(s), Accept with major revision(s), and Reject with the option to Resubmit, or Reject. If reviewers recommend that revisions are required, they must furnish the author/s with specific guidance regarding those revisions. Also, they must indicate their willingness to review the paper after revision. If there is a tie for a manuscript, the editor will solicit one review as a tie-breaker. The editor will have the final decision on the acceptance and rejection of the paper.

Reviewers are expected to submit reports within two weeks of acceptance to review.

Criteria for Acceptance and Rejection

For the manuscript to be accepted for publication, it must be recommended by two or three referees; address the comments and suggestions of the referees; follow the ethical standards and protocols; follow journal format and style; pass the Plagiarism Detection Test and Grammarly Rating and be endorsed for publication by the Editorial Advisory Board.

Journal Frequency

ASSR is a publication that comes out in March, June, September and December.
